

Candidates seek chance to challenge incumbent

By Don Green

A group of Republican women last week heard the two candidates for their party's nomination in the 65th Assembly District say they could attract vital Democratic crossover votes in November to wrest the seat away from incumbent Bill McVittie.

Don Donnelly of Pomona and George Paletsas of Upland gave their views May 24 before the Chaffey Community Republican Women Federated in Ontario.

The 65th District includes Upland, Montclair, Ontario, Chino and the Red Hill section of Rancho Cucamonga. Going into Tuesday's primary election, the district's 143,123 registered voters are almost evenly split between the West End and eastern Los Angeles County.

McVittie is unopposed in the Democratic primary. The former city attorney of Chino is seeking his third term in the Assembly.

Registered Democrats outnumber Republicans 75,212 to 58,366, or 52.6 percent to 40.8 percent of the eligible voters.

Both Donnelly and Paletsas indicated their awareness of this political fact of life.

"We have a broad support, and I think that's important in choosing a candidate for our party that can win in November. You have to look for the kind of candidate that brings over Democrats, because ... we can vote until the cows come home and we still only have about 40 percent of the registration," Donnelly said.

Paletsas characterized the district as "conservative" despite the Democratic edge in registration.

"Most of the Democrats are conservative and we can get enough of a crossover vote to put Republicans in," he said.

Don Donnelly

Donnelly is a firefighter for Los Angeles County and has held top positions for firemen's associations in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties. He is currently president of the Pomona Unified School District board and serving his third term as a trustee.

He ran in the Assembly district Republican primary in 1976, losing to Clyde Stephens.

Donnelly stressed his experience in public office, Republican politics (state central committee), school board associations and lobbying for firefighters.

He noted his support of lower taxes for education, saying the Pomona school district had never used the maximum property tax rate available to it during his years on the board.

The education system needs discipline for students and a return to basics — "that's my priority No. 1," he said.

Donnelly — whose wife works with the San Bernardino County district attorney's office — said discipline is also needed to reduce crime and that society is too concerned with the criminal and not enough with the victim.

"It's so easy to blame the courts ... It's not the courts — it's the prerogative and the responsibility of the legislative part of government to provide laws that will make crime not pay."

He noted all four Republican candidates for the 35th Congressional District have endorsed him. Donnelly said he speaks Spanish, has a "simpatico with the barrio" and can bring lower socio-economic voters into the Republican Party.

Donnelly has indicated no stand on Proposition 13, but noted it took Republican state Sen. Peter Behr to author the legislature's alternative property tax relief package.

George Paletsas

Paletsas is a cost estimator for a Garden Grove construction company and a newcomer to politics.

He supported Proposition 13 as a way to cut the amount of money spent by government. Paletsas said California needs "more conservatism in government."

The state should develop nuclear power now, he said, adding that solar energy may be a "great power source later on, but right now we need to produce what we have."

Paletsas opposed abortion — "unless full carriage endangers the health of the mother" — gun control and forced busing for racial desegregation.

He said the rights of people moving into an area so that their children could attend local schools are being "pushed by" in the busing issue.

He stressed the need for tougher laws against crime and said government should get back to basics through "common citizens" holding office and then returning to private life.

Paletsas indicated his "willingness to stand behind conservative points of view" and drew a contrast with McVittie.

"Mr. McVittie tries to pass himself off as a conservative, but he isn't really. He walks hand in hand with Gov. Brown. And Gov. Brown, whether by design or just not knowing what to do, is fast running this state into the ground."

He said legislators should vote the will of the people even if they believe the people wrong. Mistakes could be corrected later, Paletsas added.

Measure A — proposed Charter Amendment 30 for the county — would provide a two-part procedure for setting supervisors' salaries. It is the only countywide measure on the ballot.

Assessor, district attorney, sheriff and four other county offices are also on the ballot.

55-60 percent voter turnout predicted

Record number eligible to cast votes

The largest number of registered voters — 309,069 — in San Bernardino County history are eligible to vote Tuesday in the primary election.

Polls will be open 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

The county Registrar of Voters office has indicated more than 300 types of ballots have been prepared for the election due to the numerous districts within the county.

Registrar of Voters William Clinton this week estimated voter turnout countywide at 55-60 percent.

Several candidates are running unopposed in the primary election, making dry runs Tuesday before the general election Nov. 7.

Democratic Rep. Jim Lloyd faces no opposition in his party's primary, but four Republican hopefuls are campaigning for the nomination to challenge him in November for the seat in the 35th Congressional District.

Clyde Stephens of Pomona, a quality control engineer; David Dreier of Claremont, director of corporate relations for Claremont Men's College; Don Feldman, president of a scrap metals firm, and Cliff Sumrall, associate professor of communications at Chaffey College, are the Republican congressional candidates.

The district includes the entire West End, a small part of Fontana and a chunk of eastern Los Angeles County, with the district extending westward to West Covina.

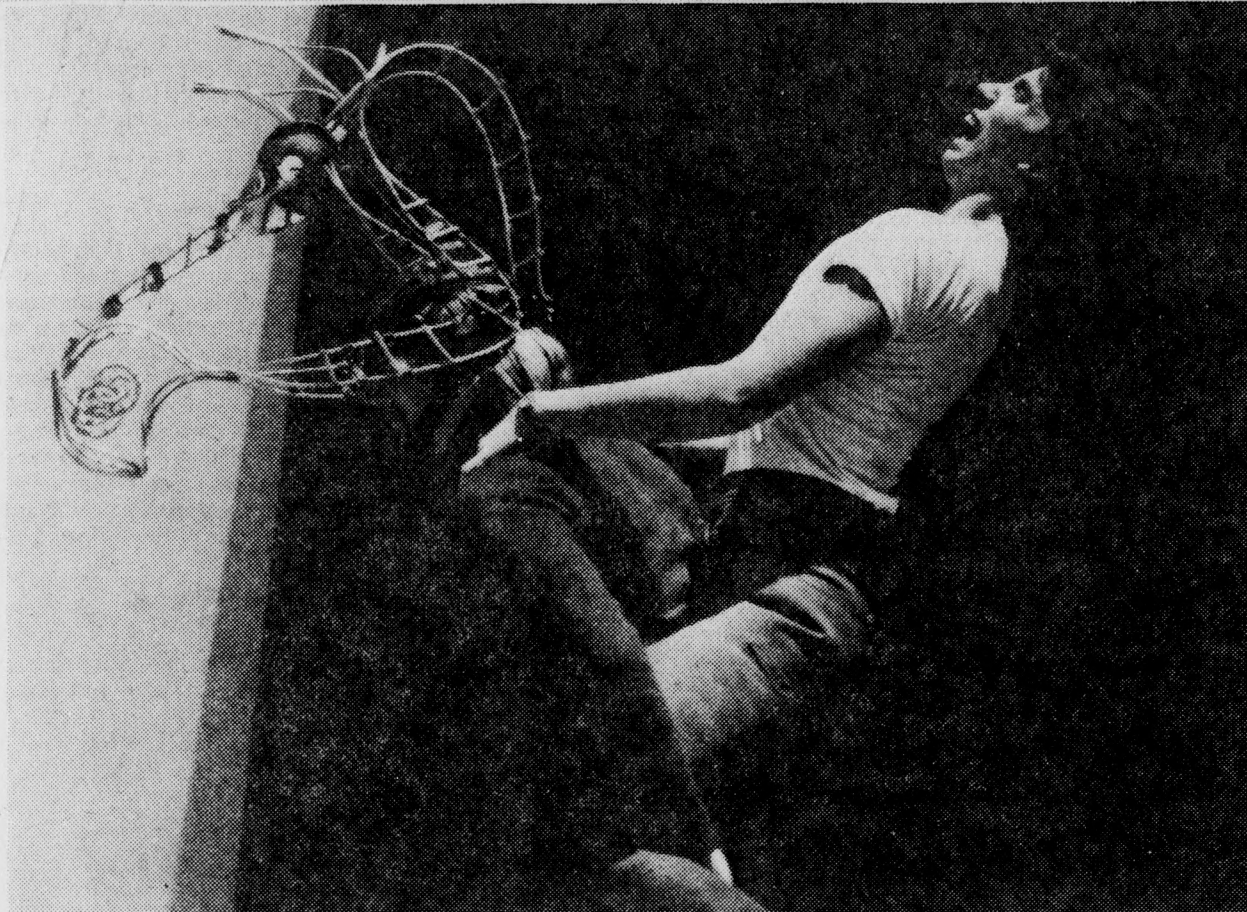

Neither Democratic state Sen. Ruben Ayala nor Republican John Ridley of Pomona face primary opposition. Ayala, former Chino mayor and chairman of the Board of Supervisors, is seeking his second four-year term. Ridley, a former Democrat, is a biomedical engineer with Southwestern Engineering in the City of Commerce.

The 32nd Senate District includes the entire West End.

Republican voters in Upland, Montclair and the Red Hill section of Rancho Cucamonga will help determine whether Don Donnelly of Pomona, a firefighter and school board president, or George Paletsas, a cost estimator for a construction firm, will challenge Bill McVittie in November for his seat representing the 65th Assembly District.

McVittie is unopposed in the Democratic Party primary in his bid for a third two-year term.

Incumbent Joe Kamansky faces two opponents for the second district seat on the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors. Cal McElwain of Upland, a quality control analyst for Kaiser Steel in Fontana, and attorney Robert O'Connor of Rancho Cucamonga are seeking the office.

Jarvis, Behr debate rival tax reform measures on the ballot

By Don Green

Howard Jarvis and Peter Behr — principal authors of rival property tax relief measures on Tuesday's ballot — traded some barbed comments to stump for their propositions last week in Ontario.

Jarvis told some 200 persons May 26 at Hill Auditorium on the Chaffey High School campus, "The people put Proposition 13 on the ballot. The politicians put Eight on the ballot. Now, all you have to do is decide who you're going to trust."

State Sen. Behr (R - San Rafael) — author of the state legislature's property tax relief alternative, SB 1 and Proposition 8 — warned against passage of Proposition 13, the Jarvis - Gann initiative.

"The government you own may be you, and in punishing the government you may be punishing yourself," Behr said.

Both propositions are in the form of state constitutional amendments. For SB 1 and Proposition 8 to go into effect, Proposition 13 would have to be defeated.

Proposition 13 would cut property taxes statewide by an estimated 57 percent. Major provisions of the initiative would limit property tax to 1 percent of the full cash value of the property as of the 1975-76 assessments and limit property tax increases to 2 percent a year.

Proposition 8 would allow the legislature to provide for lower property tax rates for owner-occupied dwellings, without increasing the rate on other properties as a result of the reduction.

The Behr package would cut property taxes for homeowners by about 30 percent, use the state surplus to make up much of the difference and provide revenue limits on local and state government.

Behr pointed out Proposition 13 contains nothing addressing itself to relief for renters. In contrast, he noted his package would raise the state income tax credit from $37 to $75 for renters, along with added assistance to renters 62 years or older making $13,000 or less.

Some 45 percent of the state's residents live in rental units.

Jarvis, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Association of Apartment Owners, has sought a voluntary agreement among apartment owners for a rebate amounting to half a month's rent.

He contended Proposition 13 would help apartment owners and renters alike.

"I guarantee you if 13 passes you're all going to get rebates or rental deductions just as sure as I'm sitting here. And I guarantee you," he said.

Behr used a large portion of his time in the debate format to explain how Proposition 8 would work.

He said, "The least understood part of SB 1 are local revenue limits requiring essentially no - growth budgets."

Local governments would be limited to increasing previous year's property tax revenues by no more than a 6.5 percent inflation factor plus new construction, Behr said.

He explained that property tax assessments could continue to increase under Proposition 8 but the tax rates would have to be reduced so that tax bills would not exceed a 6.5 percent increase.

Jarvis noted some property tax assessments have jumped as much as 300 percent over the previous year.

"I don't think a bill — like the Behr Bill, even with all its good intentions — is going to stop the advance in market value prices, and I don't believe the rates can possibly be reduced enough to offset it."

Jarvis asked Behr if Proposition 8's provision to allow lower tax rates for owner-occupied dwellings meant "you want to recover from business and commercial property all of the money that you give in relief to homeowners."

Behr referred to the language of the proposition barring such increases and called Jarvis' statement an "obvious popular misrepresentation."

Proponents of Proposition 8 "want you to swallow the myth that business pays taxes when it doesn't," Jarvis said. He added that businesses pass along tax increases as added expense to consumers.

Behr noted Proposition 13 places no limits on state spending. At one point in the discussion, Jarvis offered to spend two weeks in Sacramento showing legislators how to cut the state budget.

"It shouldn't take many brains. It takes a little guts, but not many brains," he commented.

Questioned about the complexity of the 27-page SB 1, Behr conceded that the legislation is complicated, but said, "There's not a single tax expert in this state who doesn't understand how SB 1 would work."

He said $4 billion of the $7 billion in Jarvis - Gann property tax relief would go to landlords, business and industry and another $2 billion would go to Washington, D.C., in higher income taxes.

Referring to a UCLA report showing some 450,000 unemployed if Proposition 13 passes, Behr said the initiative's "shot in the arm" is "fiscal heroin."

Jarvis countered by citing a study contending passage of Proposition 13 would create 300,000 - 500,000 new jobs in private industry.

Future police, fire levels safe?

By Don Green

Upland's top safety officials told the City Council last week that proposed budget cutbacks could jeopardize the Fire Department's ability to respond to rescue calls and spread the Police Department dangerously thin.

At the city's second hearing on the budget impacts of Propositions 8 and 13 — rival property tax limitation measures on Tuesday's ballot — Fire Chief Don Justis explained that although Upland's department has no paramedics, it performs the rescues people have come to expect from fire departments.

Until about three years ago, he said, the department responded to 200-250 rescue calls a year. In 1977, the figure jumped to 899, Justis noted.

"Since 1974 or 1975, the public has been made aware that they can get help where they weren't quite so aware in the past," he said.

He predicted 1,200 rescues this year, saying the calls would add about 6,000 miles to the department's pumper vehicle.

When the city reaches full development, the department will make an estimated 3,000 rescues annually, he said.

Noting the Fire Department has no vehicle specially for rescue purposes, Justis said, "We're looking at 15,000 miles of wear and tear on expensive equipment."

"One of our prime concerns is that we're getting multiple alarms and running 3,000 rescues is almost 10 a day. When we run these rescues, we take our pumper companies out of service for their original intent, which was fire protection."

Justis had requested the rescue vehicle and squad to man it 24 hours daily, but his request was eliminated at city administrators' two-day budget retreat in April. Total cost for the vehicle and a half year in service with two firemen on duty 24 hours was estimated at $63,200. The vehicle alone would run $30,000 - $35,000, he said.

The fire chief said his first responsibility is to respond to fire calls.

City Manager Lee Travers said the rescue service additions could be financed by a tax override, but passage of Proposition 13 could jeopardize an override effort.

Under the Jarvis-Gann initiative, he noted, two-thirds of the city's "qualified electors" would have to vote for approval. The phrase "qualified electors" has been given various interpretations — registered voters, those who actually vote in the election or all persons over 18 years.

Travers and Councilwoman Ina Petokas said the proposition could mean Upland would need a virtually unanimous vote after a large registration drive in order to pass an override.

Police Chief Coy Estes said that if Proposition 13 eliminates all property tax revenue for the city, the cutback of two proposed officer positions would drop the police force to a "very dangerous level."

The department has requested four additional officers for fiscal 1978-79.

He noted the elimination of the proposed positions would drop Upland below the ratio of 1.2 officers per 1,000 population. He added that a ratio of 1.5 is generally considered a safe level.

Referring to a fracas May 24 in which two officers were injured, Estes said, "Last night was an isolated incident, but it was a very good example... we did not have sufficient officers to handle the situation and had to call on mutual aid from other cities."

"I can't do the same thing for other cities whenever they call for mutual aid."

Travers said the city has given fire and police services high priority in the event Proposition 13 passes, cutting their budgets as "little as possible."

Investment review promised

Office and assessing procedures of the county assessor should be revitalized, revamped and revitalized for the good of the public, said R. Gordon Young who is opposing County Assessor Robert J. Harbin in the primary election June 6.

"First of all comes revitalization," said Young in a public statement.

"This means that all of the corners and crannies of the hidden assessment practices should be publicly aired."

"To achieve this result, the public must be told what is wrong, what the remedy is and the best and shortest method of getting immediate results."

"Re-ventilation should lead to a demand for revamping the assessor's office and its procedures," he said.

"The revamping means the achievement of my single purpose goal—a new and revitalized assessor's office serving all the public and not just the vested interests."

Young pointed specifically to a series of recommendations made recently by the state Board of Equalization in summary of problems it found existed in the assessor's office.

Young said there were 48 such recommendations compiled in a list which indicated relative importance.

"Certain of the recommendations are so urgent the public should hear about them before going to the poles to vote," declared Young who specifically quoted from the "Assessment Practice Survey" which is periodically prepared by the Board of Equalization. Young pointed out that this year's survey will probably not be released until after the election, and charged that the incumbent assessor is interested in suppressing its publication until after the election day.

Young is an auditor - cost analyst with 32 years of experience. He attended University of Manitoba and UCLA.

Challenger pledges changes in assessment procedures

Thomas F. O'Donnell, candidate for county treasurer-tax collector, says he will review the county's investment policies so that the county gets the most for its money.

"Failure to make timely deposits in an interest-producing account results in a significant loss of revenue," O'Donnell, Redlands city treasurer, said in a statement declaring his candidacy.

O'Donnell is one of three candidates for the office being vacated by John A. Gartner, who is not seeking a third four-year term. The county treasurer-tax collector is paid $32,139 annually.

O'Donnell, 46, says he will review investment policies related to the county retirement fund and seek the advice of outside consultants.

"It is most important that the integrity of this fund be maintained because it involves the future of all county employees," he said.

The office of city treasurer in Redlands is a full-time job. O'Donnell was appointed four years ago, then won election to a full term in 1976. He was previously director of accounting for the University of Redlands for eight years.

O'Donnell said he entered the race after Gartner's two chief assistants—Joe Bell, assistant tax collector, and John Raymond Jr., assistant treasurer—filed nomination papers. Gartner has endorsed no one.

"I am of the definite opinion that the major difference in responsibility and obligation between the city and county treasurer's offices is primarily that the county office encompasses a larger area," O'Donnell said.

If none of the three candidates receives a majority in the June 6 primary, the two top candidates will face each other in the Nov. 7 general election.

The county treasurer-tax collector is one of eight department heads elected by San Bernardino County voters.

STARLITE BALLET — Golden State Ballet Theater member Linda French practices for a performance 8:15 p.m. Thursday, June 8 at Montclair High School auditorium, 4725 Benito St., Montclair. The free program will include selections to "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Grand Canyon Suite."

Rialto trustee vows innovation in school office

Dr. Ernest F. Garcia is running for county superintendent of schools because he says he will make changes in the way that office has been run for the past two decades.

Garcia will be challenging Roy C. Hill, the 20-year incumbent who will be seeking a sixth term in the June 6 primary.

"When an office goes virtually uncontested for almost 20 years, a rigidity of operation can set in that makes it difficult for the incumbent to deal with new ideas, with innovation, or with a bold approach to the problems that schools face," Garcia said in declaring his candidacy.

Garcia, 48, is a professor of education at California State College, San Bernardino. He has been a trustee of the Rialto Unified School District for seven years.

Of Hill's performance in office in recent years, Garcia said, "It's been run as a low-profile, low-key office—and it was not intended to be that at all."

Garcia said he believes the superintendent's office should take a more aggressive role in representing the public and the 41 school districts in the county.

"The county superintendent should be a visible advocate for education in this county, willing to voice his support or objection on issues that affect the schools," Garcia said.

"The office is an important one, not only for school personnel who rely on it on a day-to-day basis, but also for the general public whose schools stand to benefit from strong leadership that does not neglect any part of this vast county."

Garcia said that until the last two months of 1977, Hill had failed to meet with the superintendents of the 41 school districts even once during the year.

"The county superintendent should be a visible advocate for education in this county, willing to voice his support or objection on issues that affect the schools," Garcia said.

"The office is an important one, not only for school personnel who rely on it on a day-to-day basis, but also for the general public whose schools stand to benefit from strong leadership that does not neglect any part of this vast county."

Garcia said that until the last two months of 1977, Hill had failed to meet with the superintendents of the 41 school districts even once during the year.

Superintendent Hill running with 19-year office record

Dr. Roy C. Hill, county superintendent of schools, has announced that he will seek re-election on June 6. He has been county superintendent since 1959.

The county office of education is a service agency for the 39 school districts and three Regional Occupational Programs (ROP) of San Bernardino County, providing instructional coordination, business - finance services, and advisory administration services to all districts.

In addition, the office provides supervisory, psychological, and health services to small districts, operates 113 classes for handicapped pupils throughout the county, and maintains a school at Juvenile Hall and at Verdemont Boys Ranch.

"I'm very proud of the fine service our office is giving the school districts and the people of this county," said Hill. "While there is even more we'd like to do, within our budget limits we are providing good service. We have maintained an excellent staff of dedicated people assisting school district personnel in many ways."

"While school management has become very complicated and requires constant attention to the legal mandates, we have never lost sight of the student in the classroom or the teachers who must have the time and the materials necessary to do the job for which they're trained," he said.

Hill has spent his entire career in the schools of San Bernardino County, beginning as a high school teacher in Needles. He taught elementary school in Mission School District before serving as an Air Corps pilot in World War II. He returned to teaching after the war and became district superintendent of Highland School District before joining the staff of the county schools office.

Tax assistant seeks top post

Joe Bell, assistant tax collector for San Bernardino County, is seeking the top administrative position of his department in Tuesday's election for county treasurer and tax collector.

As assistant tax collector, Bell is responsible for management administration and running the day-to-day affairs of the office.

Announcing 3 ways to add more interest to your life.

Earn an all-time high 8% interest on our long term certificates.

Now's the time to cash in on Santa Fe Federal's new high 8%/8-year certificates of deposit—and watch your money double in 8-years, 8-months with insured safety.

All you have to do is deposit a $1,000 minimum and leave it in for 8 years. During that time, you earn an actual annual yield of 8.33% compounded daily when you keep the funds and interest with us for one year. It's as simple as that.

So make your savings work harder than ever before at Santa Fe Federal. And do it soon. With our new 8%/8-year time deposit certificates*, it's a sure bet your money will reach new heights.

*Federal regulations require substantial interest penalties for early withdrawal.

Earn a 1/4% more interest on our new money market certificates.

At Santa Fe Federal, you don't have to wait a lifetime to make your savings work for you. Because with a new short term (6 month) certificate you can turn your money into an easy profit. Quickly and safely.

Here's how it works. When you deposit the minimum amount of $10,000, the interest rate of our certificates are set according to the 6-month Treasury Bill rate announced that particular week by the Treasury Department. But, in addition, Santa Fe Federal gives you 1/4% more than the going Treasury Bill rate—and it's compounded daily. So you're already ahead before you begin.

Naturally, the rate could change from one week to the next, but once your 6-month certificate* is opened, the interest is set and remains the same for the 6-month period. At that rate, you'll not only have your initial investment, but a considerable profit in no time at all.

So get above average earnings with a Santa Fe Federal money market certificate. It's one of the fastest ways we know to turn your money into an easy profit.

*Federal regulations require substantial interest penalties for early withdrawal.

Free barbecue cookbook and mitt.

Just for showing an interest in us, we'll give you a free "Better Homes and Gardens® Barbecue Book" and mitt when you drop by any Santa Fe Federal office. The book is a cook's tour of outdoor meals, recipes, and pointers on fire-building. And the mitt lends a hand to protecting the chef. Supplies are limited, so hot-foot it over soon.

Our interest starts with you.

Accreditation

Upland Junior High School has received a rare five-year accreditation from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

Probably fewer than 10 percent of the state's junior high schools participate in the accreditation surveys, though the studies are common among high schools.

Junior high school participants usually receive only a three-year accreditation with a written progress report on recommended improvements due afterward.

The Accrediting Commission for Schools released a report praising Upland Junior High for achievements in student behavior, general community rapport and employee commitment to education.

Minor improvements recommended by the commission included landscaping and air conditioning of the student snack bar and expansion of a program of reading specialists.

Founded in 1924 under the leadership of the Pomona College faculty, the club has grown to a current membership of 390, of which 42 live in West End communities.

Past presidents of the club from the West End include Louis J. Gentile of Rancho Cucamonga, E. Joseph Sandford of Ontario and Bert W. Humphries of Upland.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held to mark the beginning of construction of the new $4.5 million Rancho Industrial Park northwest of Archibald Avenue and Seventh Street in Cucamonga.

San Bernardino County Supervisor Joe Kamansky, Rancho Cucamonga Mayor Jim Frost and Councilmen Michael Palombo, Phil Schlosser and Charles West officiated at the ceremonies also attended by members of the Rancho Cucamonga Chamber of Commerce.

Rancho Industrial Park will be on a 13.27 acre site. Vanguard Builders, Inc., plans to construct units totaling 225,508 square feet of office space.

On completion in January, 1979, Rancho Industrial Park will house light industries, commercial business and offices. There are also plans for a public storage facility.

Home insurance costs soaring

By DALE McPHETRIDGE
President,
Ontario-Upland-Chino
Board of Realtors

The cost of insuring a home has risen in the past few years, to which anyone who has renewed a policy recently can attest. That's bad news for the beleaguered homeowner who also is faced with rising property taxes, utility bills and maintenance costs.

Inflation, particularly in the construction industry, is the key reason for climbing rates. Since insurance coverage is tied to home replacement expenses, rising construction costs have played havoc with insurance rates.

Plywood prices, for example, escalated 64.5 percent between 1971 and last fall, according to Department of Commerce figures. During the same period, cost of window glass went up 68.3 percent and wire nails 98.6 percent.

With labor costs also increasing, home replacement expenses have skyrocketed. Today it would cost more than $47,100 to replace a new home purchased for an average price of $24,600 in 1967.

Many homeowners have discovered that their policies have not kept pace with inflation. In some cases, policies written with automatic inflation guard endorsements have not been able to keep up either. How can a homeowner determine if his property is adequately covered?

How much protection is needed? Is there any way of stretching the premium dollar without sacrificing protection?

Since individual needs and circumstances vary, it would be wise to consult a qualified insurance agent or broker for answers to all specific insurance questions. Some general information designed as background regarding homeowners insurance

To determine if your home is properly insured, you first must learn its replacement value. Some insurance agents will be happy to provide you with an appraisal for insurance purposes. Or, you can perform an informal appraisal yourself with the aid of an estimating kit many insurance companies have on hand for that purpose.

For a most exact appraisal, you might wish to hire a professional appraiser, such as a member of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, an organization affiliated with the National Association of Realtors. Members of the institute holding the RM designation are specialists in the appraisal of single-family homes. You can find them listed under real estate appraisers in the phone book.

To make certain a home is fully covered, most insurance companies require homeowners to carry a policy with a face value of 80 percent of the replacement value of the insured home. (The 20 percent not covered takes into account the supposedly indestructible foundation.)

Some companies recommend carrying a larger amount.

Corn Remedy: Eliminate Cause

by Harold Berk

Corns are usually thought of as an adult's problem, but it's surprising how often you see children afflicted with them.

A corn is the result of continued pressure or friction and where the skin at a given point is prevented from throwing off the older cells of the outer layer. New cells are steadily being pushed up from below, with the result that a dense mass of crowded cells in the shape of an inverted cone forms beneath the point of pressure or friction.

The apex of the corn presses down on fine nerve ends and thus sets up pain, often acute.

Much is said about cures or relieving corns, so we won't - except to point out home cures seldom work since they fail to get rid of the cause of the corn.

YES, I'm fed up with Jerry Brown and his "lower expectations" when California needs more JOBS, more ENERGY development, less PROPERTY TAXES, less CRIME and less GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE in our private lives.

I realize Ed Davis needs to raise at least $30,000 in the next few weeks to pay for more newspaper ads, to organize volunteers in more California communities, to reach more California voters with his message. To help him, I've enclosed my maximum contribution of:

☐ $10 ☐ $15 ☐ $25 ☐ $50
☐ $100 ☐ $500 ☐ $1,000 ☐ $ Other

Archaeological dig

Archaeological findings during the 1976 Caesarea excavation will be seen in a free slide program conducted by Wayne Zaig, Ph.D., 7 p.m. Saturday at the Covina Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1067 E. Badillo, Covina. Zaig, associate professor of chemistry at Loma Linda University, Riverside, accompanied Dr. Kenneth Vine and 12 student participants. Zaig served as recorder of all discoveries. Caesarea is located on the coast of Palestine and was once the capital of Palestine. The state of Israel has announced intentions to rebuild Caesarea on a large scale when present archaeological excavation is completed.

The 1976 excavation unearthed evidence of an advanced society: a hypodrome and amphitheater, extensive city sewer system, aqueducts piping fresh water from considerable distances and crusade fortresses on the coast, in addition to numerous artifacts, tools and household utensils. Of particular interest was the unearthing of the only stone ever found bearing the name of Pontius Pilate. Subsequent dating of the stone corresponds to the biblical account of Pontius Pilate.

Carolyn Johlman, daughter of Dr. Alan and Arabelle Johlman of San Dimas, a chemistry major at LLU, will be among the 14 students to participate in this summer's dig. Interested individuals may write to: Albright Institute for Archaeological Research, Box 19096, Jerusalem, Israel - requesting information on future expeditions, as a certain number of individuals are allowed to participate, as well as schools. Covina church, serving San Dimas and La Verne, invites the public to the free slide lecture.

Jim Cramer

Jim Cramer, who is running for reelection as San Bernardino County district attorney, has been endorsed by the West End Public Employees Coalition.

The endorsement is based on Cramer's administrative experience and willingness to work for legislation to strengthen law enforcement, according to WEPEC President Kathy Kinley.

Jim Lloyd

West End supporters of Representative Jim Lloyd will honor him at a western round-up cocktail party and chuckwagon buffet 6-9 p.m. Friday, June 9 at the home of Jack and Betty McNay, 7600 Calle Casino, Red Hill, Rancho Cucamonga.

Everett Ricks

Judge Everett E. Ricks has been given a "well qualified" rating in his campaign for Los Angeles County Superior Court Office 2.

The Los Angeles County Bar Association — representing almost 15,000 attorneys — gave Ricks the highest rating possible.

The evaluation was based on professional ability, experience, competence, integrity, and temperament.

Bill Lancaster

Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, who is running for reelection to the 62nd Assembly District, is the only assembly member to be rated 100 percent on law and order votes.

The California Peace Officers Association determined the rating on the first half of the current two-year session. The association considered Lancaster's votes on the death penalty, probation, parole, assaults on senior citizens, and terrorism.

Jarvis and Behr

KNBC Channel 4 will air a program on Propositions 8 and 13 7:30 p.m. Friday. The program — titled "Jarvis - Gann, Behr and You" — will examine the pros and cons of the two propositions and attempt to clear up any misconceptions.

Proposition 13

Overwhelming opposition to the Proposition 13 tax initiative was announced recently by Ontario-Montclair Teachers Association following a vote of the Representative Council.

"Our action shows that members are acutely aware of the perils contained in this so-called property tax limitation measure," said Kathy Kinley, chapter president.

"Passage of Proposition 13 would be a disaster — for the vital services of local government we all require, for the education of our children and for the stability of our economy," she said.

"It's been estimated that Proposition 13 would bring about the dismissal of half of the teachers in California," Mrs. Kinley added. "That's a professional and personal tragedy of great magnitude for an important segment of the community."

Proposition Q

The Bonita Unified Teachers Association has endorsed passage of the revenue limit maintenance measure — Proposition Q — and recommended residents approve the proposition June 6.

President Jay Leonard said the purpose of the proposition is to maintain the present locally supported funding for Bonita district schools.

A loss of nearly 500,000 would create "dramatic cutbacks" in programs offered by the district and would make it impossible for the district to expand its program in competency-based education and the emphasis on basic skills, he said.

Teachers support the proposition and have donated money to the Citizens Committee in Support of Proposition Q, Leonard noted.

Sacramento viewpoint

Free enterprise is more than a theory

By H.L. "Bill" Richardson

Recently, five small businessmen filed into my district office. We shook hands, went through the introductory formalities and before we sat down to talk in my office, their representative gave me an envelope.

There was a check inside, a campaign contribution. I am not up for re-election for another two years and although there is nothing illegal about receiving campaign contributions two years in advance, I had done nothing to solicit the money.

We all sat down in my office and without hesitation their paid representative launched into a discussion on four potential bills he wanted me to support. Tacky, very tacky.

I sat there listening to his pitch. It was a story that I have heard over and over again — only the names and products change. "Our business is unique... we need government intervention and price regulation to be kept competitive."

"If we don't have price supports and fair trade items, the big guys will gobble us up... we need changes in laws to let us buy more competitively and support of laws that let us fix our prices."

They were upset with high taxes on one hand and demanding more laws and regulations on the other. They asked for freedom to buy as they wished but in the next breath asked for price supports of their own products. They wanted to compete in the free market but demanded controls over the big guys who were their competitors.

They vigorously defended their industry and quoted the billions of dollars of business they collectively did every year. They also quoted the taxes they paid as justification of demanding their share of governmental protection.

All the while the white envelope with the check inside was clearly evident upon my desk.

These men were rank amateurs at politics. Someone within their association gave them bad advice on how to approach politicians or at least this one. Giving a political officeholder a check and then launching into conversation about specific legislation is bordering upon the illegal, not to mention the immoral.

It signifies that they think the politician is for sale or at least for rent and that money must pass hands before you can communicate with your elected official. What a sorry state of affairs when a segment of the population thinks that the way you "communicate" to a legislator is with loot rather than logic.

How desperate are our times when the reputation of the legislature has a price tag on it. The whole affair saddened me. I waited until their spokesman had finished. I then informed the group that it was improper to discuss the matters before us as long as the contribution was present.

I disposed of the check by tearing it in half, and then we discussed the legislation they had in mind. There was little I could say to dissuade them from price supports of their items or convince them that their request of a cost plus or guaranteed income should not be the prerogative of government.

We disagreed on three of the four times. I thanked them for their views; they cordially thanked me for my time and we parted company. The parting shot from the spokesman was to the effect, "Senator, we believe in the theory of free enterprise but we have to live in the real world."

How often I have heard that one from the business community. To paraphrase, "I believe in freedom unless it affects my business adversely" — or "I believe in morals, but I don't like to practice them" — or "integrity is great for my suppliers, but it's optional with me."

What is real is that freedom in the marketplace works, especially for the consumer. Whenever a supplier of goods and services receives a price support, competition is excluded.

It is competition that brings the prices down; it is competition that causes the producer to be on the best behavior; it is competition that guarantees diversification of commodities; it is competition that brings forth excellence and it is competition that keeps one supplier honest with customers.

Monopoly produces indifference, high prices, and slovenly production. Competition exists only in freedom. Whenever government intervenes, it creates imbalances and dislocations.

Competition also guarantees one other thing: it guarantees failure to the unproductive and financial loss to those who make poor business decisions. It also guarantees that many businessowners will seek protection from competition's impartial scrutiny by gravitating to government for protection.

Corruption is the inevitable outcome of such special interests. Governmental protection will inevitably go to the highest bidder as one group after another bargains for special privilege.

(Richardson, a Republican, is state senator from the 25th District, which includes La Verne and San Dimas.)

Campaign news, notes

Voting time

Under state law working people in California may take time off to vote in the June 6 primary election without loss of pay.

The state election code allows California workers up to two hours time off from work without penalty in order to vote. Workers may choose either to arrive late to work or leave early in order to vote.

Employees need to notify their employers at least two workers day before the election that they will need work time in order to reach the polling place. Employers and employees are encouraged to arrange a mutually agreeable time for voting.

Since 1976 state and local government employees have also been allowed time off to vote without loss of pay. The voting provision also applies to the Nov. 7 general election for both private and government workers.

Ballot questions

"Ballot Propositions Call In," a 90-minute, statewide live television program will be aired 6:30 p.m. Sunday, June 4 on local public television stations.

Voters will be encouraged to phone in questions about the 13 ballot propositions on the primary ballot June 6. A panel of educators and journalists will answer the questions.

The program will be televised on KCET - TV Channel 28 in the Los Angeles area and KVCR Channel 24 in the San Bernardino area. The toll-free telephone line is (800) 662-9210.

The program is funded by grants from the California Public Broadcasting Commission and the California Commission for the Humanities in Public Policy.

Deductions

Contributions for campaigns supporting passage of initiatives on the June 6 primary ballot are not tax deductible, according to Ken Sutton of the Internal Revenue Service district office.

He said, "Nowhere in the federal tax laws is there authority for deduction of a contribution whose purpose is to promote — or to defeat — a public, nonpartisan initiative."

Proposition 13

The Chaffey College Teacher's Association is asking local voters to support Proposition 8 and turn down Proposition 13 (the Jarvin / Gann Initiative) on the June 6 primary ballot, according to association President Wallace Judd.

The faculty group pointed out that the local college would face a $6 million cut in anticipated income next fall if Proposition 13 passes. While college authorities are currently developing a "Doomsday budget," the faculty group predicted that passage would mean sharp cutbacks in the educational opportunities available at Chaffey, along with a number of "emergency" measures such as cutting back on both teaching and non-teaching staff, limiting enrollment, and imposition of a tuition charge for at least some classes.

"Even if all of these measures were taken," it was pointed out, "the college would still be facing a financial crisis of unprecedented gravity. In the end, we believe the college would be forced to abandon its traditional mission of providing free and open access to higher education and advanced technical training to all of the people of the community."

The faculty also warned of the serious economic impact that passage of Jarvis-Gann would have on San Bernardino County. "Public employment is the largest single source of income for residents of this county. If Proposition 13 causes loss of 450,000 jobs in California, as Gov. Brown has estimated, the effects on San Bernardino County would be disastrous. In effect the voters are being asked to vote themselves into a depression."

"Proposition 8, on the other hand, will provide substantial property tax relief, estimated savings will average about 30 percent of the typical homeowner's property tax, without the threat of widespread unemployment, economic uncertainty, and sharp cuts in essential government services," the Chaffey faculty said. Under Proposition 8, income to school, local governmental agencies and police and fire departments which would be lost by the cut in property taxes would be made up from the existing state surplus, the group noted. Proposition 13, on the other hand, leaves the matter to be debated by the Legislature on an election year.

Worms may not be the culprit

Each year dog and cat owners purchase large quantities of worming compounds to control intestinal parasites in their pets. Often pet owners decide worms are present by observing their pets eating grass, rubbing their hind-quarters along the ground, or suffering from diarrhea. However, these symptoms can be characteristic of all sorts of diseases, including indigestion, protozoa infections and others. The only reliable indication of a worm infection is identification of the worm or its eggs in the feces. Your veterinarian is best qualified to do this by a microscopic examination. Coccidiosis is a major parasitic infection often mistaken for worm infestation. It is caused not by worms but tiny one-celled animals called coccidia, that invade the small intestine of young animals and destroy tissue as they multiply. Coccidia thrive in dirty, overcrowded and damp living quarters where animal feces are allowed to accumulate. Young animals can ingest the parasite eggs as they groom their feet after walking across a dirty run. Pets also become infected by swallowing eggs or larvae deposited in food by flies and other insects. Once infected, pets show symptoms of coccidiosis that are frequently confused with those of other intestinal diseases. Chronic diarrhea (often blood-tinged) is the key sign. The diarrhea causes the pet to become dehydrated, with listless eyes and no appetite. In more severe cases, the pet may show cold symptoms along with a slight fever. Should you recognize the warning signs of the disease, medical treatment should be provided by your veterinarian. Haphazard administration of home remedies could worsen the condition. Worming your pet certainly is of no benefit. Many pets die each year when their owners treat the disease improperly or delay seeking treatment from a veterinarian. The proper medication must be provided in dose determined on the basis of your pet's age, weight and general condition. If the pet survives the primary infection without treatment, it can become a carrier for the disease. Suspected carriers must be treated, and their quarters and runs cleaned with a disinfectant. Strict sanitation is the major factor in controlling and preventing coccidiosis. Kennels should be dry and clean; runs should receive sun part of each day, and feces should be removed daily. Shaded, moist ground, although comfortable in warm weather, increases survival of coccidia eggs and is not a good location for your pet's living quarters. Coccidia have successfully developed parasitic relationships with a number of warm-blooded animals. Cattle, sheep, poultry and pets are all attacked by different varieties of coccidia. Dogs and cats are susceptible to infestation by three principal forms of the parasite. Recovery from an attack by one form does not offer immunity to attacks by the other forms. If you feel your pet has contracted coccidiosis, contact your veterinarian promptly.

Conservation Tips

Weatherize to cut energy cost

Sooner or later, every homeowner must decide whether or not to weatherize the house. Weatherizing means outfitting a house with energy devices (such as insulation) and it means adding energy-producing devices. Energy costs are rising rapidly. Electricity rates have increased 77 percent since 1970. Gas rates are projected to rise by 30 percent a year. This trend was illustrated in a Santa Clara study: there an average budget showed that 2 percent or $342.00 was spent for utilities in 1976. The estimated increase by 1985 will be to 6 percent or $1,037. At some point the prudent homeowner begins to investigate means to reduce energy costs. To lower the monthly utility bill, the solution is to use less energy—fewer therms and kilowatts. Homeowners must either conserve energy by cutting back on the amount used or supply their own source of energy: solar, wood or wind. Conservation can be operational changes like lowering thermostats, reducing water use, or turning off lights. Or conservation can mean furnishing the home with energy-saving accessories, called retrofit items. Simple retrofit items are automatic thermostat controls, water flow restrictors, weather stripping or fluorescent lights. Major items are insulation, double-paned glass, window shading and water recycling. Generating your own energy can be done in many ways too. Solar collector systems are the best known and can be used for domestic water heating, pool water heating or space heating. Solar cooling is still too expensive for most home use, as is direct conversion to electricity. But energy-efficient wood stoves are good sources of heat (though they contribute to other environmental problems like pollution and forest depletion.) Windmills can pump water (if you have a well), and they produce electricity. The weatherizing decisions you make depend on several factors: how much you want to spend, the availability of financing, and the potential savings on your utility bill. To offset some costs, government subsidies are available. The state will rebate up to 55 percent of the cost of weatherization to a maximum of $3,000 as a credit to your state tax obligation. Similar rebates have been agreed upon at the federal level, but won't go into effect until the National Energy Act is adopted. Think about weatherization as you would any business investment. Your initial costs will produce savings and "interest" too. The amount depends on how much you invest and how wisely you put your money to use. Remember that weatherization will yield an added bonus by increasing the value of your home. Evaluate the alternatives.

High school girls need job encouragement

G. L. of Whittier writes: I am a father of four. I want my two high school girls to aim for well-paying career jobs, just as my boys do. But teachers and counselors don't push the girls to take hard college preparatory courses as they did my boys. What can I do?

Certainly let your school administrators know how you feel. Talk to other parents to get support — more and more fathers are committed to helping their daughters get decent jobs through higher education.

Your encouragement and support can help develop an enduring sense of self-worth for your daughter which may help her overcome discriminatory barriers throughout her life. Women who are high achievers often credit their fathers and employers who act as mentors early in their careers.

Young women need such support. They are still meeting a great deal of resistance in attaining higher vocational goals. Schools reflect the still-persistent attitude that women are best suited for domestic, clerical and other supportive roles.

Girls have been segregated into less demanding vocational programs, held to higher admission standards, barred from many scholarships, and discouraged by career counselors from breaking stereotyped roles.

Boys, on the other hand, are expected to excel in physical and intellectual activities and to pursue high vocational or professional goals.

Some progress is being made under the requirements of Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex by schools receiving federal financial assistance. Counselors, under this law, may not discriminate, and no bias is permitted in admitting students into classes.

But in practice, you will have to work harder to raise your daughter's expectations for her career. Not all school teachers, counselors and administrators have deeply committed themselves to helping women achieve equal educational opportunity.

P. K. of San Leandro writes: I was amazed at the amount of medical information required for the birth certificate of my new baby. I don't remember being asked about use of drugs, abortions, and my race or ethnic background when my other children were born. Isn't the state invading the privacy of new mothers and babies with these questions?

Absolutely! These and other questions asked on the new birth certificate issued in January are indeed an invasion of privacy. And the fact that a woman must answer them or be charged with a misdemeanor is objectionable.

The new questions are extremely personal. They concern both parents' education, race, ethnicity, occupation, and the mother's address, date of last menstrual period, prenatal care, weight gain during pregnancy, miscarriages or abortions and complications.

The state Department of Health, which devised the new form maintains that the medical and social information will be kept confidential. However, the form itself fails to state that the information is indeed confidential.

(The California Commission on the Status of Women responds to queries about the changing status of California women. Persons wishing information may write to Betty Stephens, Chair, California Commission on the Status of Women, 926 J St., Room 1506, Sacramento, CA 95814.)

Apartment modes

Furnishings becoming simpler

The national trend toward apartment and condominium living is having an impact on the furniture designs being introduced by major manufacturers.

Furniture designers are responding to the needs of apartment residents especially those in the 25 to 35-year-old age group who are setting the trend toward more informal life styles.

The move is toward fewer possessions and less clutter. Clean lines and simple yet functional furnishings are the choice of most people living in apartments today.

Even people who can afford fine things are opting to live simple, less materially oriented lives. Today, many people abide by the principle that "more is less." Comfort and practicality are the key words in modern apartment living.

There is more desire for products which make prudent use of renewable resources. This has resulted in furniture designs which make prominent use of wood with cotton and canvas as upholstery materials.

This desire for more simple furnishings also has resulted in a resurgence of interest in Oriental designs. In 1978 we will be seeing more and more of the Oriental influence in apartment interiors. This is particularly true of rattan combined with cushions of cotton fabrics.

When shopping for furniture for an apartment, look for something that is rugged and easy to maintain. Moving from place to place can be rough on furnishings which are delicate or covered with materials that are easily soiled or stained.

Wood not only is durable but it also provides that back-to-nature feeling.

This year there will be more pieces of furniture that have dual purpose. One new modular unit features an end piece which opens to reveal an ottoman.

Colors continue to be bright and rich. As a result of King Tut "Mania" some of the designers are showing rugs and floor coverings to reflect the cobalt blue, turquoise and lapis lazuli seen in the collection now touring the United States.

With these new designs and the emphasis on furnishings for apartment life styles, 1978 should be a good year to shop for furniture that serves your purpose and enhances the design of your apartment.

Hearst estate, rugged shore

Scenic drive top draw

Take some of California's most ruggedly beautiful shoreline. Add the magnificence of Hearst Castle and the sleepy small town flavor of Cambria. And finally sprinkle the entire mixture with the towering natural wondrousness of Morro Rock. What do you have? A recipe for one of California's most pleasant scenic drives.

The 40-mile section of State Highway 1 between San Simeon and San Luis Obispo is continually attracting thousands of California motorists out for a day's recreation or for a long relaxing vacation. And there is a reason. Besides offering the grandness of nature itself, this lovely drive includes some of man's most elegant and pastoral creations.

With the Santa Lucia Range as a gentle rolling backdrop, the castle built by the very wealthy William Randolph Hearst is, according to the National Automobile Club, a tourist's delight.

According to historical records, it took Hearst over 28 years to complete the construction. Combining the architecture of ancient Greece, South America, and Renaissance Europe, the castle contains artifacts and priceless treasures from all over the world collected by Hearst during his heyday as the monarch of American newspapers. Tours of the majestic castle cost around $4 and reservations may be needed.

Nestled in a wooded hollow, the sleepy town of Cambria, just a few miles south of San Simeon and Hearst Castle, looks like an old New England village complete with Gothic architecture and a shingled church. Tourists find this quiet oasis scenic and relaxing with shopping and restaurants within easy walking distance.

Less than a century ago, Cambria was the second largest town in San Luis Obispo County with its prosperous dairy industry serving the entire California coast. Today only the tourist trade survives in Cambria.

Twenty miles south of Cambria, the famous Morro Rock guards the entrance to Morro Bay. The rock resembles a giant Moorish turban, showing signs of wear and tear caused by the vicious Pacific surf. In 1542 Cabrillo sighted the great crown-shaped rock and named it El Morro after a similar rock located at the harbor entrance to Havana, Cuba. Geologically the rock is one of nine volcanic outcroppings that appear along the coast from Morro Bay to San Luis Obispo. Just inland from the rock, the Morro Bay State Park attracts swimmers, beachcombers, boaters, clammers, campers, and fishermen. The state park features 135 campsites each with table, stove, and food locker. For bird watchers, over 250 species have been spotted in the Morro Bay area.

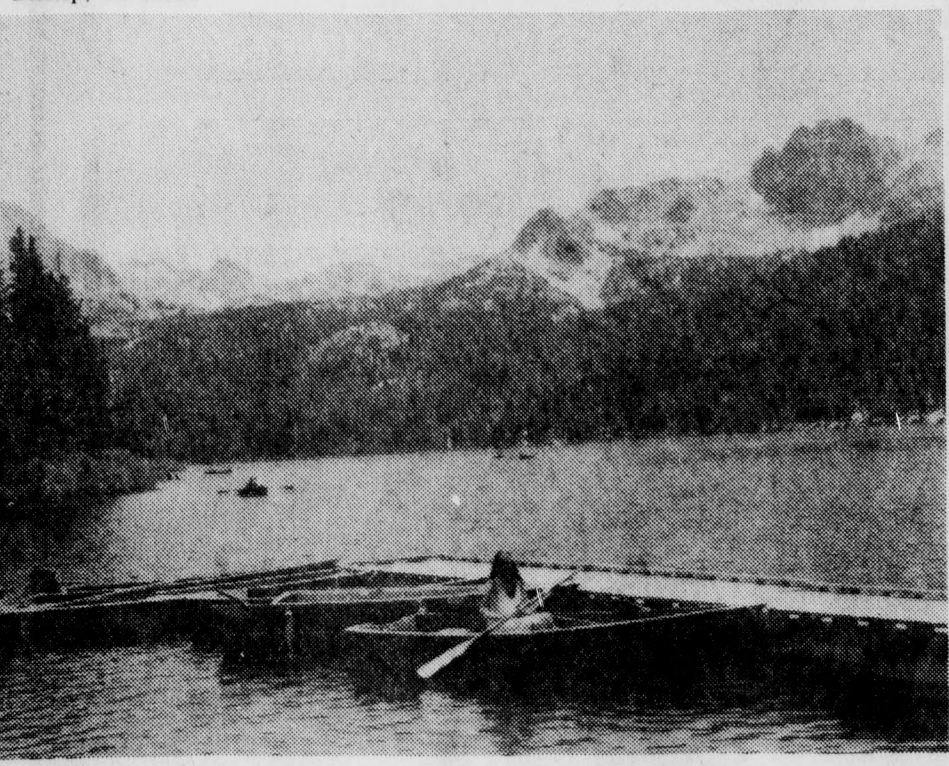

Wives victims of sleep loss

Wives may need to take separate vacations to catch up on the sleep they can't get because of a snoring, tossing husband and sensitivity to household noises, according to a Chicago mattress maker.

Drawing on research by the Rush - Presbyterian - St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago, the company stated that women don't sleep as deeply as men do, at least during the first part of the night, and are more easily disturbed. Hence women may suffer from sleep deprivation.

A separate vacation to catch up on sleep might be one way to deal with the problem. Another might be separate beds or even bedrooms. But an easier and more acceptable solution for most couples is a mattress that's large enough — a queen or king-size back supporter, for example — for each partner to sleep comfortably without disturbing the other.

SUMMER FUN — Lake Mary is one of the places to go boating and fishing in the Mammoth area. The U.S. Forest Service helps vacationers with a visitor's center near Mammoth Village, featuring slide programs, guided hikes, evening campfire programs and information on attractions in the region.

Indian crafts displayed at Pow Wow June 2-4

Scores of outstanding examples of Indian craftsmanship, both contemporary and ancient, will be on display at the Santa Monica Indian Ceremonial and Pow Wow due June 2 through 4 at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Among them will be a number of exceptional items from the private collection of Alicia Bullock, co-producer of the show.

Two pieces of which Mrs. Bullock is very proud are a pair of children's dolls made by the Flathead Tribe, some of whom reside in Utah, and others in Montana. The faces are made of cloth, the hair of woolen skeins and the clothing of finest, hand-processed suede leather. The dolls are old, but Mrs. Bullock keeps them in such good condition in a temperature-controlled vault, that they look brand new.

An attractive characteristic of American Indians is their love for children, and every one of the hundreds of tribes produced some sort of toys for their young ones. The Hopi, made miniature Kachina dolls for their sons and daughters both, fashioning them in the likeness of spirits, both good and evil, which they used to instruct the youngsters.

For example, the black ogre Kachina punished naughty children; the deer

Kachina instilled them with speed and endurance, while wolf Kachina passed on courage and fierceness.

The more primitive tribes carved dolls out of wood, stone or horn. Rag dolls, looking like crude Raggedy Anns and Raggedy Andys, were fashioned out of cloth and rough leather. Every Indian child owned a doll or two during his lifetime.

Hours of the show are noon to 9 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 10 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

this land of abundant fruits, it is fun to put together these desserts which the family will rave about.

Discover fruit desserts

Thumb through the dessert sections of old cookbooks and see what wonderful almost forgotten surprises are there — fresh fruit and berry pies and delights such as Rhubarb Cobbler, Strawberry Shortcake, Gooseberry Buckle, Cherry Slump (or Grunt), Peach Betty and Apple Pandowdy.

Cooks who dreamed up fanciful names like Betty, Pandowdy, Slump and Buckle must have enjoyed making these desserts. And so can you. Begin with fresh fruit pie made when your favorite fruit or berry is in season, or make a cobbler or one of the other old time fresh fruit desserts. They're worth rediscovering.

An open letter to the Board...

Cal McElwain

Speaks out on the property tax dilemma.

Cal McElwain Supervisor

People for Cal • Triun Long, Treasurer • P.O. Box 1435 Upland CA 91786 • State ID No. 742641

San Bernardino County
Board of Supervisors
175 West 5th Street
San Bernardino, CA

Gentlemen:

Proposition 13 (The Jarvis/Gann Initiative) has forcibly brought the entire matter of property taxes to the attention of the voters. But, Proposition 13 only addresses a symptom of the problem. The basic problem is that County Government has refused to control its spending!

As a former County Grand Juror, responsible for investigating County inefficiencies, I am well aware that today's system contains many of the abuses and inequalities that the public envisions. There unfortunately is a great deal of waste in government spending.

Nearly all politicians, including yourselves, have expressed concern over escalating taxes. But, taxes continue to rise. Something must be done to stop the monstrous spread of government spending.

The Board has the power to implement policies that will assure public that their monies are being well spent. There is something that can be done:

Immediately implement Zero-Based Budgeting on all County programs. Each year, the budgets for County Agencies should be investigated, item by item, and judged on their own worth. Not on the basis of "a little bit more than last year." Not merely because of "tradition." Each budget must be set on the basis of an analysis of the real costs and benefits to the taxpayers of San Bernardino County.

Cal McElwain is concerned about the rising taxes our citizens face. Cal McElwain thinks it's about time to stop talking about the high cost of government and start doing something about it. Cal McElwain is the one man who is offering positive suggestions about our taxing problems. Cal McElwain is working for us. Cal McElwain is the man we need on the Board of Supervisors.

Attach "Sunset" Provisions to all new legislation concerned with the outlay of public funds. Thus, any agency of County Government would have to periodically account for its actions--to justify its existence. If an agency could not substantiate its need to continue, such agency would fade into the sunset and cease to exist!

The people of San Bernardino County are reasonable people. They do not object to paying a fair price for needed services. They do, however, rightly feel that government has a responsibility to see that their tax dollars are not squandered. The people deserve a full accounting of where and how each tax dollar is spent.

It is my hope that these proposals, when implemented by the Board, will go far in restoring the public's faith in County Government. Only through an open exchange of ideas can our representative democracy be truly effective.

Sincerely,

Cal McElwain

Wanderings, with Walt Brasch

But can a frog lead?

The Board of Ecclesiastic Directors of the First United Holy Church of Jesus, Incorporated, after two years of analysis and discussion, decided last week not to ordain any frogs. This, of course, led to massive picketing of the church by the Association of American Frogs who believed that they were being discriminated against.

As Victor P. Toad, executive director of the association, said, "All God's creatures came from the sea, and we are God's creatures."

To find out why the First United Holy Church of Jesus, Incorporated, decided not to ordain frogs, I visited the Most Rev. Matthew Mark Johnson, supreme president of the church.

I approached him as he finished blessing the ceremonial offerings plate. "Rev. Johnson," I asked, "the media, and all the frogs-rights groups are upset with your board's decision not to allow the ordination of frogs. What, exactly, are your reasons?"

The Rev. Mr. Johnson cleared his throat, looked at me carefully, then explained — "It's because they're green."

"Because they're green?" I asked, not understanding why green had anything to do with it.

"Yes. The frogs are green, and we can't allow any green ministers into our order. It would conflict very seriously with our basic color scheme. Green just doesn't work with our basic browns."

"Is that the only reason?" I asked. "Because they're green?"

"Well, it's not as if we're the only religion not to like color. The Mormons don't allow anyone who's black to be ordained, so I guess that green is just as good a reason as any."

He thought a moment, then added, "Of course, I guess there's some other issues involved."

"I thought so!" I said, now writing furiously in my notepad. "Just what issues?"

"Frogs also have webbed feet. It's against the laws of God for ordained ministers to have webbed feet."

I stopped writing. "Now, let me get this straight. You won't ordain frogs because they're green, and they have webbed feet?"

"That's right. Webbed feet is not God's wish for humanity. Webbed feet is a sign of breaking with God's world. It is a sin of willful rebellion. It results from living in a sinful world."

"That's pretty heavy stuff," I said. "But what about ability? What about whether frogs have the ability to lead people?"

The Most Rev. Matthew

Mark Johnson looked at me as if I were a prime candidate for a psychiatrist. "You think frogs can lead people? Is that what you think? Well, have you ever seen a frog walk? And you want a frog to lead people! Don't be ridiculous! There ain't no one who's going to let themselves hop to church on Sunday mornings."

"But shouldn't the church recognize that even frogs have faith?" I asked.

"The Bible tells us to love all creatures, and that we are all part of the Lord. But no where does it say that frogs should be ordained."

"But, most frogs seem to be so much more respectful and honest than many of your own parishioners," I pleaded in the frogs' defense.

"I agree," said the minister, "and the ministry should offer models of integrity and morality and honesty — if at all feasible. And, I do admit that some ministers do stray from the paths of righteousness on occasion. But, at least they're not green and they don't have webbed feet. We can't allow our young ones to be influenced by such un-resisted sin as what the frogs possess."

"But," I said, almost forgetting my role as an objective reporter and lapsing into an impassioned plea, "frogs have learned the religion and have accepted your principles. They are wonderful creatures who should be given a chance to preach the word of God."

The Most Rev. Matthew Mark Johnson looked at me again — sharply. "You ain't a frog in disguise are you, boy? You ain't trying to take over this here church, are you?"

"Oh, no sir!" I said. "I'm just trying to find out why frogs can't be ordained if they have every other skill, and if your congregations are willing to follow them."

"You're trying to cause us serious trouble," said the Rev. Mr. Johnson, "and I don't care to discuss this issue any more. Now, if you'll leave me alone, I have to go watch an important television show. Never miss it. Does wonders to relax me."

"What show is that?" I asked.

"The Muppets."

Counseling Corner

Guilt feelings ruin happiness

By Vernon G. Bugh, M.D.

We often feel guilty. Sometimes, such feelings are quite warranted and proper. They occur in most of us when we have become involved in wrong doing. It is the mind's way of reminding us of our errant ways. It is the parental "no-no," the society establishing rules and regulations.

Without guilt, we would be quite unable to demonstrate a sense of respect for each other and adhere to a civilized treatment of each other.

But sometimes we are feeling guilty and there is no reason for it that we can discover. We labor under a pervasive fear of having done wrong. We have images of being punished. We feel worthless and unloved. We are depressed and sometimes feel hopeless.

Such relatively irrational feelings are not easily modified. They tend to restrict our freedom to be joyful and carefree.

Strange as it may seem, the human being sometimes carries around a load of guilt in order to feel punished for something in our fantasies that is altogether legitimate. But it has seemed illegitimate and put out of awareness only to return as feelings of guilt and worthlessness.

Maybe one has trouble acknowledging anger at a loved one, denies it, and pushes it into the background of the mind, only to have it return as a sense of guilt.

On other occasions, we may live with irrational guilt feelings as a way of coaxing other persons to tell us how good we are and how much we are loved. Although unconsciously done, it nevertheless is quite manipulative and is too high a price to pay for discovering if we are loved.

Also, guilt feelings of this type may reinforce a low self image. If I consider myself worth very little, guilt feelings may help me explain why I'm down on myself.

Such feelings are a severe impediment to ever being happy and joyful and should be confronted directly and early, sometimes with the aid of special counseling.

(Vernon G. Bugh is medical director of Clifford Clinic, Upland.)

Health Tips

Surgery is only cure for diseased appendix

Many people have the mistaken idea that appendicitis is a thing of the past, thanks to antibiotics. In fact, appendicitis is still a common problem, and most physicians agree that it can be treated only by surgery. Antibiotics help the patient recover from surgery with few complications but used alone they rarely provide permanent relief from a diseased appendix.

The appendix, a worm-like attachment extending from the large bowel, seems to serve no useful purpose in the human anatomy. Most people are not aware of this organ unless it becomes inflamed. Although waste matter from the bowel flows past it, the appendix's own mucous secretions normally keep it clean.

If the appendix's opening becomes plugged, however, its normal method of drainage does not function. An astonishing array of objects — including pebbles, seeds, toothpicks, small bones and clumps of hair — passing through the intestinal tract can plug the appendix's opening. More often, however, the appendix becomes blocked by its own twisting or by small, hard bits of fecal matter.

When blocking occurs, the tiny appendix becomes swollen and the person soon experiences the characteristic pains of appendicitis. The symptoms may be slight fever, nausea, constipation and abdominal pain. The pain does not always begin on the lower right side of the abdomen where the appendix is located. It may start on the left side or high in the center of the abdominal area and then move to the lower right side.

The swollen appendix, filled with pus, may block off its supply of blood and its nerve supply. When this happens, the person may get some relief from pain, but with its blood supply cut off, the wall of the appendix weakens and sometimes ruptures. The pus which breaks through may infect vital organs in the abdominal cavity. This is what doctors call a perforated appendix.

Although not every pain in the abdomen indicates appendicitis, any such pain that is increasingly severe and that is accompanied by nausea, vomiting, and fever should be reported to a physician. Until a doctor determines what is wrong and what should be done, laxatives or enemas should not be taken.

The surgery which corrects appendicitis is a procedure with relatively little risk. The patient is usually in the hospital less than a week.

AWARD WINNER!
for outstanding innovative land-planning

Saddlewood for only 9 more families!

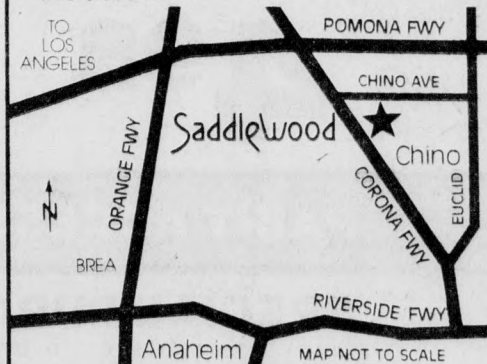

It's the great big lot that got me. Mine's more than a half-acre — others are even bigger, some smaller. I have that wide open country feeling here and yet, I'm less than two minutes from the Pomona Freeway to Orange County. I've got a boat and camper space behind the 3-car garage — (out of sight!) and we're starting the pool next week. There's plenty of value packed into this community!"

Beautiful quality — that's what I've got. Ceramic tile in the entry. In my kitchen, General Electric range and ovens, dishwasher, disposal and even a compactor! The family room is great with the fireplace, family breakfast bar and all the big outdoors shows through the wide glass sliding doors. And in the back, dad and the kids want a pool. I want a jacuzzi — there's room enough for just about anything! Another thing, the builder set up a guaranteed sale of our other home!"

Now, I can have my horse, and he can have his big corral and stable. And we can ride out the back gate right into the super trail system, then all around to our own Saddlewood Equestrian Center. It's a great meeting place for friends. There's a training ring, washdown and a trailer turn-around when 'Star' and I go to the horse shows."

If I'm not playing ball at the park or with my family barbecuing at Saddlewood's picnic grounds right next to the Equestrian Center, well, then I'm playing out back. Even with the horse, the camper, the boat and soon we'll add the pool there is more yard left than we had altogether at the old house all the kids love it!"

Saddlewood, located on the western-most side of Chino, extra close to downtown Los Angeles (less than 45 minutes) via the Pomona Freeway, just a mile away. Very possibly the best half-acre-lot, big family-home community this close-in!

Models open daily 10 to 6. Take the Chino Avenue exit east from the Corona Freeway, Chino (714) 628-4761

Salads ideal all year 'round

Fresh fruit and vegetable salads can be low in calories and offer rich sources of vitamins A and C and fiber any time of year.

A crisp salad of fresh greens or raw vegetables adds variety to a meal. Don't limit yourself to iceberg or Boston lettuce. While they are the most popular greens, many others are seasonally available and provide a different taste sensation.

Creamy Fruit Salad Dressing

- 1/3 cup sugar
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 3/4 cup pineapple juice
 - 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon white vinegar
 - 1/2 cup cholesterol - free egg substitute
 - 1 container (8 oz.) lowfat yogurt
- Combine sugar, cornstarch, pineapple juice, orange juice, lemon juice and vinegar in a small saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened, about 3 minutes. Stir 1 tablespoon of hot mixture into cholesterol - free egg substitute. Pour a steady stream of Egg Beaters into the hot mixture, stirring constantly. Cook 3 more minutes until thickened. Cool to lukewarm. Fold lukewarm mixture into yogurt. Chill thoroughly.
- ### Spicy Cooked Dressing
- 1/2 cup egg beaters cholesterol - free egg substitute
 - 1/2 cup lowfat milk

SALAD SEASON — Here's what the well-dressed salad will be wearing this season — Creamy Fruit Salad Dressing in front, and for the tossed salad in back, there will be a Spicy Cooked Dressing. There are salads for every season of the year since we have a wide variety of greens from which to choose.

Your Good Health & Chiropractic

Dear Doctor:

Recently I was involved in an auto accident. While my car was badly damaged, I didn't suffer any broken bones or other apparent injuries. Naturally, I was "shook up", but thought that was just a natural case of nervous reaction to the accident. However, my nerves have gotten worse and I now have headaches. When I asked my doctor about it, he said I might have received a mild whiplash but will get better in time. Is this normal, or am I being impatient in wanting to get over this? Miss L.A.

Dear Miss L.A.:

Nervousness and headaches are perfectly normal symptoms of a whiplash injury, but it is definitely not normal to assume that the problem will resolve itself. Unlike some fine wines and violins, a whiplash case doesn't improve with age. In fact, the first three weeks following an accident are considered the "Golden Period" for beginning whiplash treatment. Often in cases where there is no apparent injury in an auto accident, there has been a definite whiplash injury which may not make its presence felt for several days or weeks following an accident. But the damage has been done, and any auto accident victim should immediately arrange for an examination by a Doctor of Chiropractic to determine if they have suffered a whiplash neck injury. Left untreated, whiplash can lead to such problems as migraine headaches, extreme nervousness, arthritis and insomnia. Whiplash is a "do it now" problem, not one which should be left to time to heal.
